Canning is a method of preserving food in which the food contents are processed and sealed in an airtight container. Canning provides a shelf life typically ranging from one to five years, although under specific circumstances it can be much longer. A freeze-dried canned product, such as canned dried lentils, could last as long as 30 years in an edible state.

A Mason jar, named after John Landis Mason who first invented and patented it in 1858, is a molded glass jar used in home canning to preserve food. The jar's mouth has a screw thread on its outer perimeter to accept a metal ring (or "band"). The band, when screwed down, presses a separate stamped tin-plated steel disc-shaped lid against the jar's rim. An integral rubber ring on the underside of ...

We've been talking about canning and preserving as an end-of-summer change of pace for the blog. Today, let's talk about pectins. Previously, we talked a little about things that keep people from trying canning, which are usually safety fears or just pure lack of knowledge about how to can. We reminded everyone that high-acid fruit jams, processed in a boiling water bath, are a very safe form ...
